Bluegrass Classic, $\frac{3}{4}$ Time, Key of A My Key: ____

Come and 1 listen you fellers, so 4 young and so 5 fine
And 1 seek not your fortune, in the 4 dark dreary 1 mines
It will 1 form as a habit, and 4 seep in your 5 soul
'Til the 1 stream of your blood, is as 4 black as the 1 coal

CHORUS:

It's 5 dark as a dungeon, and 1 damp as the dew
Where 5 danger is double, and 1 pleasures are few
Where the 1 rain never falls, and the 4 sun never 5 shines
It's 1 dark as a dungeon, way 4 down in the 1 mines

TURNAROUND: 1 , 1 , 5 , 1 , 1

It's a 1 many a man, I've 4 seen in my 5 day
Who 1 lived just to labor, his 4 whole life a- 1 way
Like a 1 fiend with his dope, and a 4 drunkard his 5 wine
A 1 man will have lust, for the 4 lure of the 1 mines

I 1 hope when I'm gone, and the 4 ages shall 5 roll
My 1 body will blacken, and 4 turn into 1 coal
Then I'll 1 look through the door, of my 4 heavenly 5 home
And 1 pity the miner, a- 4 diggin' my 1 bones
Where...
